BEST FIGHT EVER PUT ON IN WHEELING

Will be Between Eddie Kennedy and Jack Bennett, of Pittsburgh, To-Night.

KENNEDY IS THE FAVORITE

In the Betting-Views of the Pittsburgh Sporting Writers on the Outcome.

To-night in the arena of the Metro-To-night in the arena of the Metropolitian Athletic Club, Eddle Kennedy and Jack Bennett, of Pittsburgh, meet in what is likely to be the greatest puglistic encounter ever pulled off under the anspices of the "Mets." The men are old rivals, and in Pittsburgh the sports divide in this matter of Kennedy and Bennett just as ordinary mortals are Republicans or Democrats—in fact the partisan spirit is more pronounced in the case of the two fighters than it is politically. A recent effort was made is politically. A recent effort was made to bring the pair together in Alleghe-ny county, but the authorities interfered, and now the much mooted question of superiority is to be settled here in Wheeling before the M. A. C. Interest in the bout has been at fever heat in Pittsburgh a fortnight, and the special train on the Pennsylvania this evening its to bring down a delegation of several hundred sports. In Wheeling and surrounding towns, the contest has aroused nearly as much feeling. The sale of tickets both at Pittsburgh and in this city has been very heavy, and be-yond any doubt every seat in the club house will have its $2, $3 or $5 occupant to-night when the two boxers come to-The two boxers are expected to arrive from Pittsburgh early this morning. At 3 o'clock they will weigh in, and during the day they will do only enough work to insure their weighing in at the stipulated figure.

The opening card will be a ten-round preliminary between Buzz' Auber, of Wheeling, and Ollie Adams, of Bellaire. The latter is a new aspirant for honors in the "prelim" class, and his admirers have the greatest confidence that he will put it all over the Wheeling boy. The preliminary will be called at 9 o'clock, and the main event of the evening, the twenty-round fight between Kennedy and Bennett, will be on soon after the preliminary engagement has been fought.

Both men are said to be on edge. Yes-terday's Pittsburgh Post says:

terday's Pittsburgh Post says:

Kenendy has been looked after by his manager. James Mason, and he will appear in the ring looking fit to fight for his life. Bennett is in the best shape of his career, and says he will bring home the long end of the purse. Both men are anx-lous to win, as it means many profitable matches in the future.

Kennedy has now met 24 men, winning every bout, and 23 of them knockouts, Bennett is one of the eleverest men in the country and if Kennedy can win he will surprise the knowing ones.

'The Intelligence has received the follower.

The Intelligencer has received the following expert opinions on the result of to-night's fight from the sporting editors of Pittsburgh newspapers:

Favors Kennedy.

Favors Kennedy.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.

Sporting Editor, Intelligencer.

In the contest between Kennedy and Bennett, it will be a strong, aggressive fighter against a clever, experienced boxer, lone of the cleverest in the country. As is the case in all such contests, the fighter will win. Bennett's experience will prolong the fight, but I expect to hear of Kennedy's winning before the limit.

JOHN H. GRUBER,

Sporting Editor, "The Post."

Leans Toward Kennedy. PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23. Sporting Editor, Intelligencer.

Fight should be a good one. Bennett eleverer and better rins general, but Kennedy has the punch and is willing, McGovern-like, to take a few in order to get one in. Have seen both men fight, but would not like to name a winner.

PITTSBURGH, Spt. 23.

Sporting Editor, Intelligencer.

If I were betting I would place my money on Kennedy. You know the result of most of the recent lights between nedy will be in the better condition. However, Bennett, by cleverness, may be able to keep away from Kennedy and tire him out and thus win, but I doubt it.

It is no easy problem to attempt to forecast the result of the Bennett-Kennedy fight to-morrow night. Both men are in line condition, and both have different styles of highling. Kennedy has won practically all his fights by knockouts, but in the condition of the Philadelphia. From a local point of view, the wind up scheduled for the Penn Art Club, on Monday night, is one of the most interesting ever arranged for the consideration of the followers of the game, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. he Philadelphia Telegraph. There is very reason for believing that McGovern, on account of the rapidity with which he is taking on weight, will be compelled to enter the lightweight class, leaving the championship in featherweight class open for the boy who may win it. Of the most important aspir ants for that honor, Tim Callahan, of Philadelphia, is generally conceded to have the best chance. He has fought the champion three times, winning once on a foul, losing once and fighting one draw. Of the other featherweights, Osear Gardner, better known as the "Omaha Kid," has been McGovern's toughest opponent. In fact, on the oc easion of their last meeting Gardner came within an ace of scoring a knock-Under the circumstances, then, meeting between Callahan and Gardner will be vested with more than ordinary interest. One of the two should ucceed to the championship, and Monday night's bout should determine

THREE FOR WHEELING

Was the Result of the Inter-City Match at Bowling Between Wheeling and Pittsburgh - The Visitors Came Down on a Special Train.

Yesterday afternoon the Cecella Bowling Club, of Pittsburgh, came to Wheeling on a special train on the Pan Handle accompanied by a delegation of some 200 rooters, and in the afternoon at the Fette alleys, the Pittsburgher rolled a series of three games with a picked Wheeling team, made up of one player from each of the ten teams of the Wheeling Bowling League. While the home team was not the strongest that could be formed here, it found an easy task in defeating the Pittsburghers three straight. The Con-pin sport is comparatively new in the Smoky City, and they have not yet acquired the effi-ciency that marks the play here. The score: WHEELING.

FOOT BALL.

PHILADELPHIA Sept. 23.-With less than a week before the opening of the foot ball season, the University of Pennsylvania candidates are in promising shape. The team will include more big men than those of the past few years. Horner is showing improved form, and if he continues he will in all likelihood be the selection for centre. He carries his 193 pounds easily, and gots well down the field. The principal source of worry with Coach Woodruff is the selection of a quarter-back. Johnny Gardiner last year was as invulnerable as chained armor, but a little too web-fingered for a quarter-back. If he learns the art of running hard and using his interference scientifically at the same time, he ought to make a crackerjack half-back. Nelson Graves has a reputation as a player little sub-ject to strains and other foot ball ills. He holds the rail position in the present race for quarter-back, and his reputation will help him in his fight to hold it.

Captain Hare continues his kicking. He is in rare form just now, and should he keep up his good work, he will be a dangerous man. The quarter-back kick is likely to be used freely this year. So far good results are noticeable from the practice. Big men, such as Horner, Wallace and Teas are becoming experts in making these plays.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 23.-There is now little doubt that Princeton will have a great 'Varsity foot ball team this year. Each day the prospects of the Tigers grow more dazzling. Little can be said about the line positions at present. Indications point to a lively tussic between Loggy, 1903; Wright, 1902; Butkiewicz, 1904, another Andover star, and Hale, 1902, for the position of centre. Captain Pell is not in the least worried over the back field, for, with the exception of Wheeler, all the old men will be back again.

Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 23 .- Cornellus Daly has definitely decided to try for the Yale examinations. He is an aspirant for gridiron honors. Why he joined the Columbia squad and then left the New Yorkers and came to Yale he has not explained. Yale men are not pleased with his actions, and Columbia men are angry. Daly saw Captain Brown, of the Yale team, to-day, but Brown did not urge him to join the rsity squad.

If Daly enters Yale he will, of course, have a chance to try for the freshman team, but he is not likely to be put on the 'Varsity team right off. He will have to prove his metal first and do good work in his studies in order to clear up his leaving Columbia. He is said to be a clever oarsman, but he is green at foot ball. His friends are in doubt about his ability to pass the entrance examinations. They say he has always wanted to come to Yale, but was afraid of the examinations, and in a case of faint-heartedness joined th Columbia squad. Afterwards he weakened and left Columbia. Yale has not made the slightest effort to get Daly here, and, in fact, is bored by the whole

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 23.—Harvard has a new and wonderful strong man in William H. Mack. He weighs only 123 pounds, but there was not ar athlete on Soldiers' Field who could lift him from the ground. More than this, when Mack held a pole vertically in front of him, a few feet from the ground, five men, pulling on it with might and main, could not pull it down.

Mack's power seemed to be all in the tips of his fingers. His methods are these: When the man who would lift him grasps him about the waist Mack places the second finger of his right hand on the lifter's neck and the thumb and second finger of his left hand on the lifter's wrist. Then, though he strains every muscle of his body, Mack sticks to mother earth.

Lawrence, one of the strongest men in the college, tried it; Blagden tried it; Captain Daly tried; Dibblee, the best captain a Harvard foot ball team eve.

perhaps he will attempt to train some of his mysterious force into the finger tins of the 1900 Harvard team.
